The Need for an Alternative Voice

The sinking of another boat off Indonesia last Wednesday with the associated loss of dozens of lives capped off a very bad week for our country. In the political sphere, the priorities and policies of our two major parties have frequently been described as a ‘race to the bottom’. In the eyes of many, the so-called PNG solution saw our government finally win that race in a photo finish from their opposition.

Confirmation of this status has been available in the full page advertisements which have appeared in our state newspaper every day this week and presumably in all newspapers across the nation. The colour picture of a decrepit fishing boat on the expansive ocean is accompanied by the text, “If you come here by boat without a visa, you won’t be settled in Australia.” The use of the personal pronoun “you” in this case led me to wonder how many asylum seeking refugees in Indonesia and other parts of Asia are regular readers of The West Australian. As I’m sure most people are aware, this advertisement is not intended to dissuade those who might take such a hazardous boat journey but rather to feed the xenophobic tendencies of that group in our society which is sadly becoming more influential.

At CBC Fremantle we talk frequently to our young men about the importance of not accepting populist thinking at face value. We seek to provide an alternative voice to that found in our often selfish society and instead promote values which support family, commitment and concern for the other. On important social issues such as how we as a nation respond to the plight of others, it is critical that we present a clearly articulated position and do not allow the discussion to be hijacked by the vociferous.

For true freedom of thought it is imperative that moral decision-making is grounded in sound process. At the College we do this in many ways but one of the more prominent is through the S.T.O.P. method.

Search the facts – A critical component of good decision-making involves knowing what you are talking about. Knowledge of the facts is essential for distinguishing right from wrong.

Think – about alternatives and consequences. It is always important to remember that a good outcome can never justify an evil means.

Others – As Christian people we believe that we live for others. We must be unselfish in our behaviour and consider the effect of our actions from the perspective of the other.

Prayer – The example given to us in the life and teaching of Jesus will always provide a reliable moral compass.

I very much doubt that the recent decisions made by our country’s leaders would have been the same had this process and a commitment to the common good been in place.

As a faith community and a member of the Edmund Rice Education family we are called to be inclusive, accepting and welcoming. The Charter for our schools requires us to stand in solidarity with those who are powerless and marginalised. This is a stance which we proudly take at the College and I thank those families who support our endeavours through their teachings at home.

Principal

Helping Mums to raise boys

The Parent Council is again presenting the Mums Raising Teenage Boys Relationships Australia seminar, which was very successful last year. This year, we're adding a new seminar titled, Mums Raising Boys in a Solo Parent or Fly in Fly Out Family.

The cost of each event is $10.00 with the College again supporting both evenings. Places are limited to 25 mums per workshop. To secure your place, payment must be made to the College Accounts Department prior to the seminar date. A receipt will be issued to confirm your attendance.

Mums Raising Teenage Boys

Monday 5 August, 6.30pm – 9.00pm

However well-prepared mothers are logically, the emotional response to having a boy is often still, “Wow! This is unknown territory.” It is true that for many mothers, the idea of raising a son carries its own set of worries.

As the primary female role model in a boy's life, mothers play an important role in the development of their son's identity including their ability to be nurturing. This in turn affects how they relate to others, particularly to girls and women.

Mums Raising Boys in a Solo Parent or Fly In Fly Out Family

Tuesday 6 August, 6.00pm – 8.30pm.

When your partner is regularly away, or when you are a solo parent, different family life challenges can result. Often there are specific emotional and practical difficulties to manage such as feeling isolated or lonely, or not having a partner available to deal with discipline and other parenting issues. This seminar explores parenting teenage boys from a more ‘solo’ perspective and gives mums useful and supportive strategies to help them meet challenges more effectively.

CBC Music students in Singapore

On Sunday 7 July, 16 CBC musicians from Years 10 to 12 travelled to Singapore for a week of musical activities, sightseeing and immersing ourselves in the amazing culture.

Whilst in Singapore we performed at the Blu Jaz Café to an appreciative audience made up of locals and some Perth visitors. We also visited the Yio Chu Kang Secondary School and participated in their band rehearsal. Our last musical activity was to participate in a combined rehearsal with the Thomson Community Big Band. This has members of all ages and was a great chance for us to make contacts with various musicians from the Singapore music scene.

In addition to these musical activities, we had the opportunity to visit Universal Studios, Sentosa Island, Night Safari, Vivo City (the largest shopping centre in Singapore), Adventure Cove Water Park, the largest aquarium and maritime museum in the world, Marina Bay Sands Sky Park and Gardens by the Bay.

This tour would not have been possible without the generous support of the CBC Music Parents' Group, which helped by subsidising the cost for each student to attend. A big thank you is also due to Mrs Tandy for accompanying us for the week.

I encourage all the young musicians out there to keep practising hard and work towards being involved in our next Music tour in 2016.
