From the Vice Principal

New Chapel for CBC

This weekend marks a very special moment in the history of our College. On Sunday we will celebrate the opening of Blessed Edmund Chapel in the original school building on the High Street side of the campus.

To my knowledge, for the first time since 1882, the entire CBC Fremantle Community will have access to a sacred space on campus. The previous sacred space was the Brothers' Chapel, now our Boardroom, directly above the Principal's office. Since its decommissioning, there has not been a designated replacement, and this has long been recognised as a missing link in our otherwise complete faith community.

Before I make some comments about why this is such an important feature of a Catholic school, I would like to acknowledge the community of Tardun and the foresight of Peter Baldry. Since 2011, when the establishment of a Chapel moved from ideal to reality, many, many people have contributed to completing this wonderful amenity for our College, but without the generosity of the Tardun community in donating the pews, altar, stations of the cross, stained glass windows and many other remnants of their Chapel, and the vision and hard work of Mr Peter Baldry, who organised the donation and then physically transported (with Mr Louis Miller) all the Chapel fixtures, Sunday's celebration may have remained a pipedream.

Unfortunately, in our radically secularised society, the question of God is often not central in most people's lives. This is especially so for many young people, for whom God is missing, but not missed. I often share the aphorism, "There are no atheists in foxholes" with my classes. It is a saying used to describe the fact that in times of extreme stress or fear, such as in war, all people will believe in, or hope for, a higher power. It is at these times that prayer, contemplation and reflection have greatest meaning. As adults, we understand how painful certain moments can be, moments when we may have an extremely ill child, parent or friend; times waiting for medical test results; periods in our lives where we are faced with momentous financial, or personal, decisions. To be able to withdraw into a place that provides us with a sense of the sacred is such an advantage in seeking to find reconciliation to whatever dilemma we face.

Our new Chapel is a blessing we would like to extend to you, either by your participation in our House Masses held most Thursdays, or at any time you feel the need. More importantly, it is an opportunity for you to assist your sons in gaining an understanding of the importance of prayer and a sense of the sacred, in helping them deal with their issues and in seeking guidance about the way forward as a developing gentleman.

Our first House Mass in Blessed Edmund Chapel will be held next Thursday. I look forward to seeing many of you and your sons over the course of the next few years, enjoying the Chapel for its beauty, history and liturgical ceremonies, but above all, finding in our Chapel a sense of the sacred from where good decisions emerge from deep prayer.

Mr Domenic Burgio
Vice Principal

Help Old Boys help others

Three CBC Old Boys are planning on walking 100km in 24 hours to raise money for charity.

From 18 to 20 October Connor Orrells ('12), Patrick Tunnicliff ('11) and Sam Leahy ('10) will be participating in the Oxfam Trailwalk to team up against poverty.

Registered under the name Team Zezima, the intrepid trio hope to raise $1,500.

If you would like to assist the boys in reaching their target you can donate via the website <https://trailwalker.oxfam.org.au/team/home/15243>. All donations are tax deductible and go towards investing in long-term projects, responding to emergencies and campaigning for change in areas of need.

CBC Fremantle has a progressive Information Communication Technology programme. At CBC, laptops are issued in Year 7 and integrated into the curriculum until Year 12. Access to current technologies encourages active and creative learning, and our ICT policies guide and protect students while achieving their academic goals.

While our children are keeping up to date with the latest technology, keeping up to date with our children can be a daunting task.

Head of ICT Mr John Rear understands the concerns of parents. Come along to an informal Q&A evening, enjoy a glass of wine and learn how CBC is prepared for the challenges of ICT in the hands of our children.

*This is what the Lord asks of you:
to act justly, to love tenderly and to walk humbly with your God.
Micah 6:8*

Last Saturday evening our College community joined with the Parish of St Patrick's to celebrate our Family Mass. It was very pleasing to see 600 people from the two communities gathered together to share in the celebration of the Eucharist.

Our tradition of holding two Family Masses each year is a wonderful sign of the very close relationship we hold with our local Parish. Fr Tony Maher is generous in his support of the College and is always willing to help us celebrate key College events.

When we see students, their parents and teachers gathered together, it reinforces the essential three-way partnership that must be nurtured in order to educate and form good young men who have a spiritual dimension that can shine forth in our secular world. Our community celebration of liturgy, especially the Mass, gives a powerful witness to a God who is active in our lives and seeks to deepen His relationship with us.

At the conclusion of the Mass, Fr Tony commissioned the 10 students and two teachers who are soon to depart for the Philippines to undertake an immersion experience working with the Christian Brothers. These young men have volunteered to take themselves considerably out of their comfort zone and to stand side by side with the poor who live on the margins. The participants were presented with a simple wooden crucifix and College tee-shirt, and they were instructed by Fr Tony to wear them as a symbol of their faith in Jesus Christ and as a sign of their membership of the CBC Fremantle community.

Fr Tony concluding the commissioning with the following prayer:

*All-powerful and merciful God,
you reign from your throne of service.
Help these, students and teachers, to continue their pilgrimage as they journey from their homes.
Show them the way of service to each other and those they meet.
Help them understand and appreciate all they encounter.
Under your protection let them reach their destination
and come home at last, to a welcoming and loving community.*

More glory for lower school football

After Year 7 Soccer bringing home the Glory Cup for the first time in CBC history, lower school football has more silverware to add to the cabinet.

Last Saturday, Year 8/9 Australian Rules Football won the WAFC School Boys Cup at Patersons Stadium, after heartbreaking losses to Trinity for the past two years.

The Glory Cup win for Year 7 Soccer was CBC's third year of participating in the 10 year competition, and the result of an outstanding season for the boys in black.

For the full story and more photos of the Year 7 Soccer and Year 8/9 Football victories, visit the newsroom at www.cbcfremantle.wa.edu.au.

Year 12 Geography field trip

To assist in their 3A/3B Geography course, the Year 12 class visited a number of sites around Perth to gain some first-hand knowledge they can use in their upcoming exams.

Firstly, the students visited the new Perry Lakes estate, that is replacing the old Athletics track, a good example of how Perth is infilling spaces rather than building all new housing on the city fringes.

The boys then headed north and stopped for a view of the coastline near North Beach and to observe some sandbagging against sea level rises.

The group then headed to the far northern boundary of the city where a new housing area, Brighton Estate, is being built. The Development Officer for Satterley Homes provided a tour of the area to highlight the sustainable housing and designs being incorporated, including a new train station due to be finished by the end of the year.

After a lunch stop in Joondalup, itself a good case study of an outer business district, we headed to the Water Corporation Beenyup wastewater treatment plant.

At Beenyup, the boys were given an excellent tour showing how the trial system of turning wastewater into clean drinking water operates.

CBC take on the microphones at Sport FM

On Wednesday 4 September the AEP Literature and Media Group and select CBC Radio 89.2 students went on an excursion to 91.3 Sports FM where the boys were hosted by announcer of the Sports Breakfast Show, Ben Cameron.

Ben, who has been at 91.3 for about nine months, showed the group all the tips and tricks of the trade. One of the most valuable pieces of advice that Ben provided was to start a contact book for interviewees and make guests comfortable by making the interview sound and feel like a conversation. However, his most important tip was to never, ever blame your producer if you make an error!

The visit began with Ben showing the group around the main studio during a live broadcast and how they use the Foxtel Live Sports channel for updates. At Sport FM, two announcers usually broadcast per segment.

CBC Radio producer, Keane Bourke, says that his confidence in the CBC Radio equipment has been boosted after seeing the equipment at a professional radio was very similar to what the College uses.

The boys were then taken through the procedure that producers go through to prepare a show and some of the hardships that they may face when broadcasting. After that, the group was given the chance to record interviews with each other and Paul Jardine-Clarke and Will Power interviewed Ben about how he came to be at 91.3FM.

Our visit to Sport FM was very informative and a real insight into a career in radio and the media. We would like to thank Sport FM for allowing the boys to visit, and Ben Cameron for giving up his time to show us around. He certainly gained another 15 listeners as, according to one of the boys, Ben was the coolest dude he had ever met!

The University of Notre Dame October Holiday Courses

- Year 10 Preparation for Upper School English
- Year 11 Academic Reading and Writing

Due to the July school holiday courses being booked out very quickly, and receiving excellent student feedback, The University of Notre Dame Australia will be offering two October holiday courses.

Notre Dame will be offering a Year 10 Preparation for Upper School English course. Full details and enrolment forms can be downloaded from www.nd.edu.au/Yr10English. This academic reading and writing course will help develop the skills needed for academic success in Years 11 and 12, and is designed for students currently in Year 10.

The university will also be offering Year 11 Academic Reading and Writing Course. Full details and enrolment forms can be downloaded from www.nd.edu.au/Yr11English. This programme is ideal for Year 11 students currently completing Stage 2 course, who need to revise content and skills.

Teaching occurs in small classes, the courses are inexpensive and offered as a community service project, and so places always fill quickly.
